Lviv. Transfiguration Church / ??????. ?????????????????? ???????

Description

This church is in the central part of the city. It was built on the foundations of the XVIII century temple – the former Trinitarium Church, using the walls and structures preserved after the fire of 1848. Main building periods: 1703-1731 (construction of the Trinitarium Church); 1783 (reconstruction for the University library); 1875-1898 (modern temple), architect Sylvester Gavrishkevich.

In its current state, the architecture of the church combines forms of historicism with the remnants of baroque forms and early classicism. The author of the plastic interior design and the figure of the apostles in the drum was Leonard Marconi. The iconostasis is made by T. Popel. Painting compositions - by T. Kopystynsky and K. Ustyianovych.

In 1948, on Krakivska Street, in front of the Transfiguration Church, the head of the initiative group for the transition of Greek Catholics to the subordination of the Orthodox Moscow Patriarchate Gabriel Kostelnik was shot dead. Soviet propaganda blamed the OUN (Organization of Ukrainian Nationalists) underground for his murder, although it is possible that Stalin's special services removed an undesirable witness to the liquidation of the UGCC (Ukrainian Greek Catholics Church). The Transfiguration Church was the first in Ukraine to return to the UGCC, on October 29, 1989.
